Phrasal Verbs:* "LOOK FORWARD TO"

HOST: Hello! Now we are going to teach you one phrasal verb, "look forward to." We have a small drama that will help you understand.

AMBER: I look forward to going to New York next week.

RAJAA: Look forward to? What's the meaning of "look forward to"?

AMBER: Oh! It means I'm so happy because I will go to New York.

RAJAA: I see. You mean to be excited about something you know will happen in the future, right?

AMBER: Yes, you got it. That's exactly right. It has to be something you're pretty sure is really going to come true in the near future. By the way, we say, "I look forward to going" and we also can say, "I am looking forward to going."

RAJAA: Ha-ha! I am looking forward to going to New York with you!

AMBER: What? (They laugh)

HOST: That's our lesson for today. We're looking forward to teaching you again soon!
